

reconsideration is what he is after, if we are going to mangle the rules we ought to mangle them in an orderly fashion and I think the remainder of the rules still exist where a question can be divided if by severing one portion there is a remainder which can stand by itself. Now in order to have a reconsideration as the body has voted to allow Senator DeCamp to do, we don't also have to suspend the rules that are found in Section 6, subdivisions 7 and 9. So I am asking for a division of the question and that that reference to Rule 6 be separated from the rest of it and let him get his reconsideration. Then if he wants to suspend other rules related to what happens on Final Reading, that would then perhaps be appropriate even though it would not be wise.

CLERK: Senator DeCamp, just so your motion has been modified to the extent now that the only rule we need to suspend is Rule 7, Section 7 which is a reconsideration rule because you are willing to submit it to three separate votes.

SENATOR DeCAMP: Mr. Speaker and Mr. Clerk and Mr. Chambers, I am the most accommodating guy you are ever going to run into. If you want 30 votes, fine. I just think the issue ought to have a vote.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. Chairman, is it still Rule 7, Section 7a or is it all of Section 7? Because Section 7 deals with the number of votes required and I'm wondering if that is to be suspended also?

SPEAKER MARVEL: Okay, we have three...Senator Newell, you had a point. We are ready to proceed.

SENATOR NEWELL: Yes, my point is simply, early on about forty minutes ago when this issue came up I mentioned to Senator DeCamp, Senator DeCamp, Senator DeCamp, about forty minutes ago when I brought this up I asked if you were willing to divide the question and you agreed to it at that time. Do you remember that? Are you still in the same frame of mind?

SPEAKER MARVEL: Well there are three parts to the vote. Pat, do you want to list the three parts?

CLERK: Well, Senator, there will be three separate votes. One is to suspend Rule 7, Section 7, one to reconsider the bill and the third would be, shall the bill pass on Final Reading. Those would be the three votes.
